The practice, under the medical leadership of Dr. med. Marion Baege, offers a broad range of modern dermatological treatments. Its medical focus includes treatment of skin and sexually transmitted diseases in adults and children, allergy testing, skin cancer prevention, and occupational health assessments. The range is supplemented by a dedicated vitiligo clinic and surgical dermatology.

Dr. med. Marion Baege also has extensive experience in aesthetic medicine, having worked in the field since 1997. In 2006, she was certified as a trainer for botulinum and filler treatments. Ever since then, Dr. med. Marion Baege has sought to share her expertise in the field with other dermatologists.

The practice team places great importance on personalised patient consultation and treatment. Central to this is a holistic approach: skin health is considered within the broader context of each patient's overall well-being. Discretion and a trust-based relationship between the practice team and patients are essential to this.

MVZ Hautzentrum Leipzig uses state-of-the-art medical technology to give patients the best possible dermatological therapy and diagnostics. The practice also offers digital services in addition to on-site treatment. Patients can upload photographs of skin changes through Onlinedoctor and receive an assessment within 48 hours with a treatment recommendation or guidance on next steps.

Three specialist doctors and three further training assistants work closely together to ensure a continuously high quality of care at MVZ Hautzentrum Leipzig: 3,700 patients were treated in the first quarter of 2026 alone.

'We are very pleased to include an excellently positioned practice like MVZ Hautzentrum Leipzig in our network. This is also the CORIUS Group's first practice in Saxony,' says Heidi Niemöller, CEO of the CORIUS Group. 'The team around Dr. med. Marion Baege combine medical quality, modern structures and a wide range of dermatological services. Many years of experience in aesthetic medicine are a real asset to our growing network.'

'Joining the CORIUS Group allows us to further expand our dermatological expertise. As part of the CORIUS network, not only can we exchange information on the latest dermatological standards with colleagues across locations, but we can also benefit from the fact that most administrative activities are taken over by the CORIUS Head Office. This gives us more time to care for our patients,' reaffirms Dr. med. Marion Baege from MVZ Hautzentrum Leipzig.

With MVZ Hautzentrum Leipzig, the CORIUS Group is expanding its presence throughout Germany and at the same time creating new opportunities for professional exchange within the network. The goal remains to work with partner practices to ensure high-quality, modern and local dermatological care.
